My thoughts of Black Friday :

The majority of businesses will report less earnings than last year,with unemployment being at record high, it's hard to be believing we're going to fall off a cliff into a recession at the consumer level.
I've already got used to making less, with a closure of 3 operations this year already, I've learnt to control my expenses better than the competition.

Personally i think Black Friday is a popular shopping event, but you might struggle to find the things you want and settle for less cost effective alternatives.
You might get stuck with products that are inferior in quality
You might feel so pressured to buy something that you make a poor choice,
There's so much pressure and you can't think straight!

Without a dlubt it comes with great deals, you know what you are getting, it's entertaining and it provides jobs to retail employees!

However some deals aren't really deals, it can lead to overspending, lines and crowds are too much and a trend of violence is most likely to take place!

Investors must always remember that excitement and expenses are their worst enemies!!

Abathengi babeka unyaka wonke imali bebekela impahla abayifisayo nabayithandayo kodwa ngenxa yobunzima abakwazi ukuyithenga isikanye uma kufika iBlack friday umthengi usuke esezibekele kangcono imadlana ukukwazi ukuthenga leyompahla.
